It is the oldest bridge in South Carolina and is one of three bridges on a road that originally ran from Charleston, SC, to Asheville, NC. The bridge is part of the 120 acres of the Poinsett Bridge Heritage Preserve. It was named after Joel R. Poinsett, a former US Congressman, and it has a notable gothic feel.

Allow yourself to unwind in this natural paradise.

Pearson's Falls Glen was originally purchased by Captain Charles William Pearson, who discovered this magical place. He and his heirs owned the land until 1931 when Pearson's son was forced to sell a portion of his holdings. The Tryon Garden Club purchased several hundred acres to create this botanical preserve.
